I picked up my son from his bus stop, and I had grocery shopping to do and needed to stop by my mothers, my mom lives in Marysville, so we decided to head to my mothers to get that out of the way first, as we were driving north the rain picked up, so traffic did slow a bit but driving continued, I was driving behind a van or SUV, ~~the~~ drivers were driving with the flow of traffic, but as always driving in the rain always makes it more scary (I have been hit twice on freeway in rain) but the light turned red, so we had to brake, and as all of us stopped and my son and I were talking and in one second we felt this huge jolt, and next thing I know I look in my review mirror to see the car that rear ended me on fire, Its hard to concentrate when being in ~~such~~ shock, having a 5yr old in tears and seeing a car on fire. But when I realized what happened I pulled over, there was a van that came to the side of us, and asked if we were ok, and I just said not really & no my son isnt, and they said that they saw the car rear end our vehicle & that they had called 911. Since car on fire I couldn't go over & check the occupants, but I called 911 pulled over & waited for authorities.
